

Sara

SARA is the tallest girl in the contest at 1.82m.

She said: "There aren't a lot of tall girls in Singapore. My height attracts attention and makes me stand out."

But it can have its disadvantages too.

"I can't sit properly on buses because the space between the seats are not wide enough, so I have to sit sideways.

"And, a lot of guys don't dare to come near me!"

20 Things about Sara

My height is quite uncommon for a 17-year-old girl.

People say the way I smile is attractive. It gives me confidence to hear them say that.

I'm too lazy to exercise. It takes too much effort just to lose weight.

I like all colours. It all depends on how you combine them together.

I like music with deep, emotional or meaningful lyrics.

I don't have any favourite movie but I like Kung Fu Panda and Ratatouille.

I enjoy my mum's home-cooked food a lot.

I don't like spicy food. I dislike the feeling of something burning in my mouth.

Having my fun and caring friends and beloved family members around me makes me smile.

Places like children's playgrounds also make me smile.

I like dogs because they are man's best friends and can understand our feelings.

I don't own a pet. It takes too much commitment and time to keep one.

I'd rather speak on the phone. The message is clearer and you can tell the other person's feelings.

I like to dance.

I have been singing in the choir since I was in primary school.

I won't stay at home alone. I don't like being alone.

I won't go on a blind date. I'd be shy because I don't know the other person.

I love performing. It feels fun to have everybody look at you.

I wouldn't sky dive or bungee jump. My legs go weak when I see it.

I'm scared of insects especially cockroaches and even worse, flying cockroaches.

For more on Sara, visit tnp.sg

THE Subaru Forester has streamlined yet sharply defined lines that give it a sculpted and well-accentuated profile.

At the heart of the Forester is a dynamic Subaru Boxer engine, giving it the power to conquer anything from expressways to jungle terrains while remaining smooth and refined.