

TARYN is The New Paper New Face's first mother and married woman. She has two children: Son Keanu Skye, 2, and 5-month-old daughter Mikaela Breeze.

"My children have taught me patience and how to appreciate the moments through their eyes.

"It's my greatest challenge, but the joy that I get from my two precious gems makes it all worth it."

20 Things about Taryn:

The sexiest thing about a woman is her confidence.

I wouldn't mind being a little taller.

My favourite food is Hainanese chicken rice. There's a really good place in Far East Plaza.

I love beaches and the water.

The last thing I bought was a pair of sparkly shoes. You can never have enough pairs of shoes.

Every time I see a spider, I just look embarrassingly undignified.

I don't like pick-up lines. They aren't sincere.

"Are you tired? Cause you've been running through my mind the whole night" is a really bad pick-up line.

I have a fear of heights.

Falling off a cliff isn't exactly my cup of tea either.

I have entomophobia, the fear of insects.

Hip-hop and R&B music get me off my chair and onto the dance floor.

'Overprotected' by Britney Spears describes me. It's about having to make your own mistakes and not having your parents putting safety nets under you.

I smile every time I think of my family.

I cry if I see any form of abuse.

I enjoy conversations because I can "hear" the other person's emotions by hearing their voices.

I don't enjoy my own company.

Happy memories of my wedding and the birth of my two babies are simply irreplaceable.

My saddest memory is the death of my dog Amber.

I would like to stop child abuse as well as animal abuse.
